HOPKINSVILLE, KY., SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 4, 1898.

EIGHT AMERICAN PRISONERS CAPTURED.

The Maine Disaster Repeated At Santiago, Says a Spanish Report.

Port Antonio, Jamaica, June 3.—(Special).—Santiago advises say that the American fleet renewed the attack upon the harbor fortifications and Spanish warships at 3 o'clock this morning. This fire was well sustained until 4 o'clock. An American auxiliary cruiser attempted to force a passage of the harbor, but was sunk by the explosion of a torpedo. Eight Americans were made prisoners by the Spanish. The story comes from Spanish sources and has not been confirmed from any other source.

The Washington Authorities Refuse to Credit the Jamaica Story.

Washington, D. C., June 3.—(Special).—A brief bulletin telling of Schley's reconnaissance at Santiago Tuesday is all the information the navy department has given out today. This bulletin confirms the press reports of the firing on the fortifications at Santiago. It appears from the bulletin that Schley concentrated his fire upon the Spanish defenses. It seems probable that had he found the conditions more propitious than they were, he would have made an assault upon the forts.

Notwithstanding the positive statement coming from Jamaica that the second Spanish fleet from Cadiz has crossed the Atlantic and is about to join Cervera at Santiago, the officers of the Naval Department declare that the Cadiz fleet is still at Cadiz. Capt. Sigbee, of the St. Paul, reported to the Navy Department to-day and had a conference with Acting Secretary Allen.

Thrall and Jones, the two newspaper men who were in prison at Havana and were exchanged for two Spanish officers, also reported at the Navy Department during the day.

OFF FOR PORTO RICO, THREE REGIMENTS LEAVE MOBILE.

Mobile, Ala., June 3.—(Special).—The Second Cavalry, the Third Infantry and the Twentieth Infantry took passage on transports this evening. It is believed they are bound for Porto Rico. Other troops will probably leave by rail for Tampa tomorrow.

LISTENING FOR NEWS, THE PRESIDENT HAS HIS EAR TO THE GROUND.

Washington, June 3.—(Special).—The President informed the members of the Cabinet when they met to-day to be in readiness to answer a summons to the White House, as he was expecting a report from Sampson and the fleets at any moment now. This expectancy is based on the orders which were sent to Sampson when he was instructed to join Commodore Schley.

The transports with the troops are on their way, and word has been received here that the second division is off Key West. Before they reach Santiago Sampson and Schley are expected to have utterly demolished the fortifications at the entrance of the harbor of Santiago, and Sampson's general orders are to take the city, capture or destroy the Spanish fleet at any cost.

Under Brig. Gen. Huling, May Go to the Philippines.

Chickamauga Park, Ga., June 3.—The Third Kentucky Regiment arrived here at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, and was assigned to the quarters recently vacated by the One Hundred and Fifty seventh Indiana. The regiment has been assigned to the first division of the first corps and third brigade, commanded by Brig. Gen. Huling. The soldiers are in good health, are well quartered and are enthusiastic over a report that they will probably be sent to the Philippines.

Spanish Prisoners Paroled. Forty-Five Returned to Spain.

Key West, Fla., June 3.—(Special).—Forty-five officers of the Spanish matriculants, or naval reserves, held as prisoners of war in the harbor here, were paroled by United States Marshal Horr. They pledged their sacred word of honor to go back to go back to Spain and neither bear arms against the United States nor aid her enemies until the war is finished or they have been regularly exchanged for American prisoners of war.

The forty-five comprise the captain and mates of the Catalina, Guido, Pedro, Argonauta, Ambrosia, Bolivar and Miguel Jover, and the captains of most of the sailing prizes. There are nearly 450 seamen, crews of prize vessels, here, and they will be released on the same terms. All matriculants, under the Spanish laws, are subject to instant conscription on their arrival at any Spanish port.

Marshal Horr will carry parole blanks to the vessels to-morrow. As soon as the men sign them they will be moved to the Catalina and Miguel Jover, which have been released by the United States District court, and will sail for Barcelona as soon as bonds equal to the value of the ships and cargoes have been filed by their owners.

Tennessee To Manila—The Second Regiment Ordered to Asia.

Washington, June 3.—(Special).—Gen. Corbin this afternoon telegraphed orders for the Second Tennessee Regiment to start for San Francisco at once to embark for the Philippines under Gen Merritt.

The Second Tennessee and the Fifth Iowa were added, as Corbin said, for the reason they wanted two first-class additional regiments for Merritt.

Schley Heard from at Last—His Attack Was a Success.

Washington, June 3.—(Special).—The Navy Department has received an official report from Commodore Schley regarding his recent attack on the fortifications at the entrance to Santiago harbor. It was read at to-day's cabinet meeting and received with satisfaction. Commodore Schley says that his attack was made for the purpose of developing the enemy's position, to locate their batteries, etc. In that respect it was, he says, entirely successful, and he accomplished what he set out to do.

None of his vessels was touched by the enemy's volleys and there were no casualties or mishaps on his vessels. He says, in addition, that he has no reasonable doubt that Cervera's fleet is inside the harbor at Santiago.

SAY, WHAT YOU GIVING US? WE'LL BELIEVE IT WHEN WE SEE IT.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 3.—(Special).—The correspondent here of the Associated Press has been informed from an apparently authentic source at Port Antonio, this island, that a Spanish fleet from Cadiz is nearing West Indian waters.

The Spanish fleet is said to consist of sixteen warships, among them being battleships and three torpedo boats.

The British second-class cruiser Indefatigable, Capt. George A. Primrose, has sailed for Santiago with several doctors on board, in order to watch the impending battle and aid the wounded.

MRS. ATKINSON'S TRIAL. SUCCEEDS PROF. RYLAND.

Case Against the Wife of West Virginia's Governor.

Wheeling, W. Va., June 3.—In the second trial of Mrs. George W. Atkinson, wife of Gov. Atkinson, on the charge of forgery and jointly indicted with J. P. Owens as accessory, Judge Blizard sustained the demurrer of the defense and so far as Mrs. Atkinson is concerned she is temporarily released.

It will be remembered that Mrs. Atkinson was indicted on a charge that she had forged the signature of a previous husband, the late Judge Gideon Camden, to certain receipts and other papers given to Owens in some real estate transactions, and that on her first trial last winter the jury disagreed. At the former trial the defense was that Mrs. Camden had proper authority to sign her invalid husband's name to business papers and practically handled all his business for him. The prosecution claimed that the papers, or some of them, were given after Judge Camden's death.

Unfounded Rumor.

It was reported last night that George Ratcliff, a colored man who recruited in this city Thursday and was sent South to join the Tenth Cavalry, had been killed while en route. The rumor said that his head was struck by a car while he was looking out of the window of a coach. Investigation failed to substantiate the rumor.

There is a hot contest between the Louisville Legion and an Iowa regiment for the honor (?) of being the last regiment mustered in under the first call for 125,000 volunteers.

SUCCEEDS PROF. RYLAND.

Prof. Jones Will Be President of Bethel College.

Russellville, Ky., June 3.—Prof. Thos. S. Jones, President of Bethel College, Cuthbert, Ga., has been offered and has accepted the Presidency of Bethel College at this place. He is a young man, but thirty-one years old, but has a reputation as one of the ablest educators of the South. His wife is said to be a fine musician, and declined an offer of a large salary to teach music in a seminary in Cuthbert.

Lynching Probable.

Nashville, Tenn., June 3.—George Scott, a young colored man, is in jail at Springfield, Tenn., charged with attempting criminal assault on Mrs. William Scoggins, wife of a well-to-do farmer living just across the line, in Logan county, Kentucky. Mrs. Scoggins successfully resisted the negro's assault, and her husband chased him some distance, getting close enough to pepper him with bird shot from head to foot. He will be lynched, it is thought, when taken back to Adairville.

WARRIORS.

Colored Cavalry Recruits Who Have Gone to the Front.

Lieut. Johnson Secures Nineteen Men and Will Put in One More Day.

Lieut. Johnson, of the Tenth Cavalry, has had good success here in securing colored recruits for his regiment. The first day he got none at all, but the second day he received eight and these were sent to the front Tuesday night. Yesterday ten more were added to his list and sent last night to Fort McPherson. The complete list is here published for the first time:

John Wright, Wm. Wagner, McClellan Redd, John Brewer, Henry C. Owsley, Ed Ratcliffe, Geo. R. Ratcliffe, Geo. Layne, Richard Buckner, Buford Young, William Pryor, Fairleigh Broadie, James Gregg, William Lloyd, Robt. Buckner, Lawson Smith, John Hurt and Thos. Taylor.

Lieut. Johnson will remain here one more day and expects to get several more. The men enlisted have already gone in two detachments to Atlanta, where they will report for duty at once.

Lieut. Johnson will go from here to Paducah. He has been out in the State a month and has recruited 125 men, which he regards as going unusually well; as the work of examination is tedious and laborious.

A great many other applicants failed to pass.

ALFONSO XIII.

Reported to Be Safe in the Harbor of Puerto Rico.

Madrid, June 3.—The report that the Spanish troop ship Alfonso XIII had been captured by an American auxiliary cruiser is without foundation. It is announced officially that the Alfonso XIII is now landing her cargo of provisions at Puerto Rico. The Captain General of Puerto Rico cables that the question of subsistence has raised no difficulty in the island, as several vessels have entered the ports with provisions.

MORE DELAY.

Gen. Miles Taking It Leisurely at a Six Dollar a Day Hotel.

Tampa, Fla., June 3.—With the establishment of general army headquarters at Tampa, and with Major General Miles on the ground personally directing the movements of the army, affairs here, almost stagnant for some time, have again taken on a considerable degree of activity, but no embarkation of troops has as yet taken place from this point.

Although the work of preparing the army for the campaign continues with unabated vigor, until the fate of the powerful Spanish fleet is settled, no orders for the invasion of Cuba are expected. Admiral Cervera is apparently the unknown quantity in this problem of war. When he is disposed of, it is probable the opportunity the army has so long waited for will come and come quickly.

Clarksville Criminal Court.

The Clarksville Criminal Court will adjourn today. Chancery Court convenes Monday and the minutes will be kept open for two weeks.

FORGED AN ORDER.

Leslie Shipp In Jail for Alleged Crookedness.

Charged With Forging Adams & Dalton's Names To An Order For Goods.

Leslie Shipp, a colored boy, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a warrant charging him with forging orders on B. J. Mathews.

He has been in the employ of Adams & Dalton, a contracting firm, and this firm has been trading with Mr. Mathews, doing an order business. Knowing this, Shipp forged the firm's name to an order for goods upon it.

He was arrested by officer Craven and was arraigned for trial before Judge Leavell. He waived examination and in default of bond was sent to jail to await the action of the grand jury that meets next week. Shipp appears to be in a very bad scrape.

MATRONS

To Mend, Darn and Wash For Each Regiment of Volunteers.

Washington, D. C., June 3.—Senator Faulkner has introduced a bill authorizing the Secretary of War to appoint two matrons to each regiment of volunteers to serve during the war with Spain. Their duty is prescribed as follows: To mend, darn, wash the clothing and see to the sanitary condition of the men of their respective commands. The bill provides that the matrons must be between the ages of 35 and 55, and of good moral character. Senator Faulkner explained that the bill was introduced at the request of a number of worthy ladies.

BLACK CANNIBALS.

Eat Ten of Eighteen Prisoners Captured in New Guinea.

San Francisco, June 3.—Mail advices received from Australia contain a brief account of the cannibal of native prisoners held at Mombare, washed the clothing and see to the sanitary condition of the men of their respective commands. The fugitives gathered a strong force and returned to Mombare, they attacked a peaceful village below the police camp, whose people they suspected of treachery, and carried off all the women. They captured and killed 18 men, 10 of whom they ate.

STARS AND STRIPES.

Will Hereafter Float on San Miguel Island.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 3.—Capt. Waters, the owner of San Miguel Island, has made the discovery that this bit of land was never ceded to Mexico by Spain. By some oversight it was omitted from the list of islands given up when Mexican independence was acknowledged. As soon as he learned this fact Captain Waters hastened to his little island, hoisted the American flag and took formal possession in the name of the United States.

The Howard-Baker Feud.

Barloursville, Ky., June 3.—The Howard-Baker feud broke out again last night, when Tom Baker shot and instantly killed Beverly White, a member of the Howard faction. They met on the highway, several miles of Manchester. More trouble is expected when Baker's trial comes up next Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Wiley, of Fairview, were in town yesterday.

Walter Forrester's friend, Bill Lyons, has been promised a commission in the commissary department at Washington. He got the promise without Gen. Forrester's endorsement.

The old game is to be repeated this year. Now that harvest is at hand, the price of wheat is to be forced down until the new crop is moved, and then put up again after it gets in the hands of the speculators.

The Gorman amendment proposing a tax of one-quarter of one per cent. on the gross receipts of corporations engaged in the refining of petroleum and sugar, has been agreed to and will catch the Standard Oil and Sugar trusts.

The gunboat Leyden has captured a small key near Cardenas and the American flag now floats from a Cuban lighthouse. The Spanish gunboats in the harbor have made no effort to recapture the key. They are busy filling the only unimpaired channel with obstructions.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch, owned by Joseph Pulitzer, whose New York paper did not support Mr. Bryan, makes this comment: "In view of the fact that over 500,000 American citizens thought William J. Bryan fit for the position of Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy, President McKinley could well afford to take the risk of giving him a regiment."

Orders have been issued apportioning the territory in which the immune regiments are to be raised. Only four of the ten regiments will be colored. The first and Eighth will be recruited from Kentucky and Tennessee, and part of the Seventh from Tennessee. Recruiting offices will be opened at Louisville, Knoxville and Memphis.

They had a high old time in the French Chamber of Deputies Wednesday. M. Deschanel was elected President of the Chamber over M. Brisson by a vote of 277 to 276, but there was such an uproar he refused to accept. Thursday another election was held and Deschanel was elected by 282 to 278 amid similar scenes of disorder.

The American Tract Society, of New York, in one of its April publications, printed an article on "Poor White Women" in the South, that caused the papers all over the South to denounce the article as false and libelous. The author of the article was Mrs. Houghton and the publication has made a complete retraction, saying the offensive article got in while the editor was sick. Following is an extract from it:

"It is surely time to recognize the needs of the poor whites in our Southern cities, and especially of the women among them. They are not an attractive nor hopeful class. Feeble of body and, as a general thing, weak of mind, sadden with snuff through the uncleanly habit of dipping, utterly illiterate not only, but untrained to any useful employment, these women are entirely without that romantic charm which invests the girls and women of the mountains. The city women are as dull, uninviting, thankless material as these are the reverse. But they have souls. They have eternal needs and eternal possibilities—eternal responsibilities, too, though these, it would seem, they must largely share with us Christians who neglect them. For the girls of our Southern cities there is at present only one industry—prostitution. They are too sluggish and dull-witted for factory work; they have not perseverance enough for household work or sewing. Among these women the Mormon propagandists find their easiest work; hundreds of them go to Utah every year."

TATE TURNED BACK.

A Volunteer Who Hid When the Landing Was Made.

Details of the First Expedition Sent to Cuba on the Florida.

Tampa, Fla., June 3.—The transport Florida, which left here over two weeks ago with one of the largest expeditions for the arming and reinforcement of the Cuban army ever sent out from Tampa, returned here last night. Confined on board with the grave charge of desertion against him is an American who enlisted in the Cuban volunteers who were sent on the Florida, but who, according to Capt. Silver, who piloted the expedition to its destination, at the last moment, when all the supplies had been landed and the volunteers were ready for their march into the interior, showed the white feather and ignominiously hid himself on board the transport.

The man's name is said to be Tate. He lives in Tampa and joined the volunteers some time before their departure. What action will be taken in his case has not yet been decided.

The main features of the Florida expedition have been published, but additional details were learned from Pilot Silver and from Capt. Dorst, who had charge of the expedition. Although Spanish soldiers were within three miles of the landing place and two Spanish gunboats were only five miles away, absolutely no trouble was experienced in landing the stores. The Spaniards undoubtedly knew that stores and volunteers were being put on shore, but they did not come near. There were no interruptions during the entire three days the Florida spent in the harbor. The transports were met by a crowd of perhaps 300 pacificos, old men and women, emaciated and almost naked, who had heard of her coming and who assisted with an eagerness that was almost pathetic, in unloading the cargo of the Florida.

On the second day of the Florida's stay in the harbor a good-sized body of Cuban insurgents, in command of Gen. Rayo, appeared on the shore and the work of unloading was then pushed with the utmost vigor. The day previous the force under Gen. Rayo had an engagement lasting several hours with a large body of Spanish troops, which resulted in the defeat of the latter. The insurgents lost a dozen killed during the pursuit of the Spaniards. Word came that the steamer Florida was on the coast, and without stopping for rest or ration the insurgents took up the march to the sea, eighteen miles distant. No stop was made until the shore was reached, and although the insurgents for twenty-four hours had nothing to eat but a few bananas apiece, they went to work at once unloading the Florida's cargo. The cases containing the rifles were broken open, the contents distributed among the men and out on the pack mules for conveyance. So hungry were the insurgents that several cases of bacon were broken open by them and the contents eaten raw.

The State Election Commissioners will not hear anyone in person in recommending persons for appointment as county election commissioners, says the Frankfort Argus. All recommendations must be in writing and every recommendation will have consideration from the commissioners. They will have no certain named day to make county appointments, but they will have all the appointments complete for every county in the State previous to September 1, 1898.

It is estimated that the war will cost $600,000,000 if it continues one year.

Mr. M. S. Thompson, of Cudiz, was in town yesterday.

In Memory of Mrs. Morris.

Mrs. Morris who was born April 30th, 1809, died May 21, 1898, at the residence of her son F. P. Morris. She lingered with faint trouble and old age. She was a very admirable old lady and was respected by a large circle of friends and acquaintances. She was a tender, indulgent mother; she was sincere in her friendship. She was a bright and useful member of society and a shining ornament to her sex.

Mrs. Morris leaves forty-one grand-children and thirty-three great-grand children. She is gone! That hand so warm is now cold and lifeless as the clouds of the valley. Her florid cheek has turned pale in death. Her eye so full of lustre has ceased to glance in softness on her four sons and one daughter, and is darkened forever.

Her heart which once beat so high with hopes of life and glory, has ceased to throb and her voice sounds no more. But she left the world in peace, and her friends in tears. She had a hope beyond the mortal shores. In her was evinced the excellency of the gospel of Methodism to the dying. In her it manifested its saving power; its peerless majesty and glory, its supreme conquest over death and hell, by living close to the cross.

It was this bright hope which elevated, sustained and cheered her languid spirit when the embers of mortal life were feebly glimmering in the socket of existence. Weary of life, they laid her down, With folded hands upon her breast, Her soul was put on angel's wings, And winged its flight to heaven to rest. SILENT.

LISTEN TO YOURSELF.
Ah, teacher, let me hear you teach:
You have brave words from olden seers,
The lore of those long-remembered years
Of all the far-off years:
The gray old thoughts of gray old men
Beneath the Asian stars,
Brought safe by fate through clashing
swords
Of remembered wars.
And you have read the multitudinous tomes
Of many an alchemist shelf;
But have you stood beneath the stars
And listened to yourself?
Ah, teacher, let me hear you teach:
You at old ages' feet have sat;
Know you the man within your coat,
The man beneath your hat?
You know the thoughts that shaped the world,
From far-off centuries blown;
What awe the man who sits with thee
When thou art all alone?
Why should I listen to a man
Who listens at the alchemist shelf?
Man, let me hear a living man
Who listens to himself.
—Sam Walter Foss, in N. Y. Sun.

CITY ADVENTURE.
Two people coming to Chicago at about the same time, from the same place and with about the same aspirations, are liable to meet with similar experiences.
As an illustration of this rather high-sounding proposition there may be related the experience of the young man from Loom City, which is more than city, and yet a community of good people who make a specialty of remaining at home except when there are excursion rates.
This young man, tired of the long days and quiet evenings in Loom City, with nothing but an occasional lecture or church social to break the eternal monotony. He wanted to be where he could hear the ding-dong of the cable cars and see the patrol wagons go by. He used his influence with a traveling salesman who came to sell goods to his father every 30 or 60 days, and at last had a chance to go to work in the shipping department of the wholesale house at a salary which represented the wildest dreams of Loom City avarice, although you may be sure that he found it small enough after a few weeks among the cigar stores and cafeterias of the cruel metropolis.
"Oh, you, who have lived in town all your days, and who became dulled to the charms of urban life through too much early contact, if you could see Chicago just once as the Loom City boy saw it in the dusk as he walked northward from the Polk street station!
The mountainous office buildings towered for miles above him. The roar of the city smote strangely on an ear accustomed to the perennial silence of Loom City.
Every handsome cab that thrummed by with a driver tilted jauntily on the high perch, had to him the air of novelty and dream of luxury.
Far down the street he saw the gliding cable trains, and to him they were still a mystery and a delight.
The incandescent lights studded the windows like jeweled eyes, and as he walked past the brilliant interiors he felt that he could almost breathe the glare and get an intoxicating effect.
And the people who pushed by him in the gathering current! How easy and self-possessed they seemed in all the turmoil and excitement! Perhaps they had become accustomed to this circus-dance noise and splendor.
They were so well dressed, too, many of them, and they moved rapidly—men, women, boys—talking, laughing, shouting, jostling, crowding. It was the six o'clock rush, and with it came a clamor of wheels and bells and screeching brakes.
The young man clung to his valise more desperately. He tried to catch the whirling and eddying streams of people, and he became dizzy in the effort. All the time he had a sick loneliness as he realized that no one person in this multitude knew him or cared for him.
One young man, when suddenly pushed into the activities of city life, will give way to his timidity and fright, and not recover for weeks. Another, after the first depressing effect, will feel the contagion of excitement and enjoyment and will want to join in them immediately.
The young man from Loom City had no sooner deposited his valise at the European hotel and hurried to the street again than he felt an exulting desire to take advantage of all his rights and privileges as a resident of Chicago.
He had an assertive self-confidence and that very useful conviction that one man is as good as another—if not better.
He came to a restaurant from the doors of which there escaped a continuous uproar. The shouts of the waiters, the clatter of dishes and the shuffle of feet joined with the rattle of talk from a vast herd of people at the tables. There were at least 300 men and women in the place. Some were eating voraciously. Others chattered nervously and beckoned for the portions of meat. Still others talked.
There were constellations of electric lights above and on any side. The colored stucco work in the ceiling tossed itself in billows and large patches of mirror gleamed on the walls.
Here was grandeur, sure enough, and the young man from Loom City gave himself over to the most riotous imaginings as he leaned back in his chair, perfectly at home and perfectly self-possessed. He was only six hours away from Loom City, and yet he was in another world, all stucco and electric lights and genuine happiness.

He brought a spluttering negro to his side by a condescending movement of the hand and ordered an oyster stew, after which he devoted his time to a study of people at the surrounding tables, trying to select from each one a home and a business occupation.
He was rather surprised to learn that the charge for the oyster stew was only 20 cents. The stew had not been particularly good, but he naturally expected to pay something for incidental magnificence.
He walked out of the restaurant and stood in front, picking his teeth, as he felt that he had a right to do, having just eaten in the place.
He had a joyous sense of freedom and was keen with anticipation. He knew that no matter in which direction he moved the city would unroll itself in a panorama of new life, and that if he would but look he might see all the fashion, the architectural beauty, the marvelous show windows, the picturesque wickedness and the attractive poverty of Chicago. He strolled away from the restaurant, wondering why he had not come to the city years before.
A crash of music startled him, and he discovered that he was in front of a dime museum.
The colored paintings shrieked at the passersby. A concealed brass band played with deafening vigor. Behind a glass window a chalky woman with a spreading mat of yellow hair was fondling a lumber and very sleepy reptile.
The young man knew of the varied attractions of a dime museum. He went in, reflecting as he did so that in Loom City one could not purchase so much genuine entertainment for ten cents.
He was duly interested in the freaks of nature and chilled with horror when he saw nails driven through the hands of "the woman who knows no pain." Afterward he witnessed a stage performance given by performers who could dance wonderfully well and were simply bubbling over with new jokes.
As he left the museum and started away a negro in a faded check suit tapped him on the arm and motioned to him to step up close to a lighted window.
"Do you want to buy a diamond?" asked the negro, in a whisper.
"No, I guess not," replied the other, surprised.
"Don't say a word. The police are after me. If they get me with this ring I'm gone. I don't want to throw it away. I'll sell it to you for anything—two dollars. You hurry!"
He opened his hand cautiously and showed a ring set with a stone of fiery brilliancy. The young man from Loom City hesitated.
"Hurry up," said the negro, pushing the ring into his hands. "Give me the money."
The young man took two silver dollars from his pocket and slipped them to the negro, who hurried away.
Here was a real city adventure to begin with—the purchase of a stolen diamond. The young man pushed it into his pocket and dared not take it out until he reached his hotel. He had a griping for four in passing a policeman at a corner, and he wondered whether he would be implicated in the stealing if some one saw him wearing the ring and recognized it.
On the ring stolen? The negro had not said so.
Next day the young man studied the ring carefully after he reached his room. It was very yellow gold and the diamond dazzled him. Should he keep it or should he sell it?
He had heard that a diamond will scratch glass. He tried the stone against the window pane without effect. He saw that he had been mistaken. A diamond does not scratch glass.
He slept uneasily that night because of the strangeness of his surroundings, the noise in the streets and the occasional guilty twinge of conscience.
Next day he went to work, but he told no one of his purchase. At the end of a week he began to feel that there was no risk, so he wore the ring. It seemed to be less brilliant than at first.
On the street ten days after he arrived he met a friend from Loom City. He seized him by the hand.
"How are you, Ed?" he asked.
"Well, I declare, I've been off to the store to see you, but they wouldn't let me in."
"What are you doing up here?"
"I came up to locate. Say, where did you get that ring?"
"Why?"
"Because I've got one just like it. I bought it of a colored fellow in front of the museum." He showed the other the ring.
"Well, I'll be darned! That's where I bought mine."—Chicago Record.

SCIENCE OF WRESTLING.
Advice of Billy Muldoon—For Health and Self-Defense.
Billy Muldoon, the great wrestler, has given some "tips" in his art and says that every young man should learn the game as a means to the preservation of good health. Says Muldoon:
"The reason why wrestling has quietly sunk into oblivion is because it has not the outward show of excitement that boxing has. It lacks a certain fierceness that pleases the majority of the public. There are no blows to bring out the brutal instinct, nor is the test of pluck so outwardly shown. The fact remains, and anyone will attest to it who has seen wrestling, that pluck is required, just as much as in boxing."
"I desire to recommend this exercise to young men and boys especially. I have been an athlete all my life and connected with others of the same profession. There is a certain knowledge which will better develop the human frame physically or give it such lasting powers to withstand sickness and ill health as wrestling. A boy needs, first of all, a strong frame. No wrestling can fight his way in this world without giving large attention to increasing his physical powers. He may look a good way before he can find a better opportunity for his purpose than wrestling. It strengthens the bones, enlarges the muscles, gives good wind and develops a pluck and determination that should not be neglected."
"Those who watch wrestling and do not understand its principles consider it a slow game and a mere twisting around of arms and legs, with no excitement to give it a proper go. Let these novices try the exercise and they will change their mind. I have been so tired after a bout of wrestling that my arms have been almost paralyzed, and I was utterly unable to raise them. This certainly proves the strain of the exercise."
"Wrestling is a scientific study, not only of physical prowess, but of equilibrium. It brings out logical thought. A man in a certain position with muscles of the proper description can be thrown by only one method. It requires a study of anatomy to figure out this means. One must know each little muscle in the body and what power it is able to give each exertion. There are many boys and men who are stronger than they know, and yet will never realize it. Wrestling would teach them in short order just where their particular power lies and how to use it."
"Many boys are prevented from going into this sport from the reason that they are told there are so many holds and falls to be learned. They seem to think that it is so intricate that they hardly care to risk the trial of learning it. It is not necessary to go into the study so deeply as all this. The main principles are all that are needed. They are very simple and can be easily learned. It is only when two professionals, equal in muscular development and scientific knowledge, meet that some particular lock or squirm wins out. To know where to exert the power to throw a man is the fulcrum of success. To throw your strength just under the plank of equilibrium and in the direction where no brace can be obtained is the winning principle."
"Large attention is paid to boxing as a means of defense in time of danger. Few people think that wrestling holds any importance in such cases. Permit me to say that they are sadly mistaken. There is no situation that I know of where wrestling could not be used to certain advantage. It would avoid bloodshed and the brutal maiming which sometimes happens in scraps. By learning my pet hobby a small man is able to cope with the larger antagonist. It is not a pleasant position to be in when a six-foot man thumps you, if you are a mere strapping fellow. Yet, by getting a low hold upon him, and with the knowledge of how to throw your strength and weight, he is bound to fall to the ground. It is well to remember that in such a position strength is equalized. It then becomes a mere question of coolness and power. I think I am safe in saying that all small men should learn wrestling, if for nothing else than their own benefit."
"I am a thorough believer in physical culture. I have had a large experience in training men, and have seen old men regain their youth by such means. It makes the weak strong again; it turns sickness into health. If more men would give up the craze of making money and devote some little time and thought to exercise, the American race would be better off."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Spaniards are too lazy to cut their own corn. At harvest time crowds of Portuguese cross the border and do all the harvesting.

A Curious Coincidence.
By a curious coincidence the number of lives lost at sea during 1896 in British merchant ships is returned as exactly 7,897.

To the Driving Public

The assortment of vehicles which we now have on hand is the results of careful study of the wants of the people of this section. We have the elevated gear for country driving and the low hung carriage for city use.

We have the handsome cut-under surreys, for short turning, the plain jump seat, the single seated phaeton, and the knock about cart. We have some very stylish traps with adjustable seats, and single buggies by the car load. In these we have end, side, or coil springs, bracket front or piano bed. Comfortable, common sense buggies with wide seats, and H. M. T. buggies for the courting youths of this vicinity, with rubber tires if you want them that way.

Among the high grade buggies we sell are Delkers, Troys and Woodhulls. We handle a number of cheap buggies—Ames, Enger, Parry and Haydock.

Buy Your buggies from us and WE will Be here to make our guarantee good.

Samantha at Saratoga, in a New Dress.
One of the funniest of all funny books is certainly "Samantha at Saratoga." Will Carleton pronounces it "delicious humor" and Bishop Newman says it is "bitterest satire, coated with the sweetest of exhilarating fun." Formerly published by subscription at the price of $2.50, and sold, it is said, by the hundred thousand, it has recently been issued in an exquisite little cloth-bound volume of the "Cambridge Classics" series by the celebrated cheap-book publishers, Hurst & Co., of New York, as a means of widely advertising their series, and is sold at the fabulously low price of 25 cents. It would seem strange if they should not sell a million of them. They are sold by booksellers, or the publishers direct.

MR. BEAZLEY THE WINNER.

With Miss Shadoin a Close Contestant.

An entertainment was given at South Kentucky College last night that was the first feature of the commencement exercises, that will be brought to a close next Wednesday night.

Prof. Louis Spencer Daniel's pupils in elocution gave a recital in Expression and Delsarte, to a large crowd of highly interested auditors. A very entertaining program was carried out, the leading feature being an oratorical contest for a gold medal in which a dozen or more participated. The contest was so close between Mr. Hugh C. Beazley and Miss Ella Shadoin that the judges had great difficulty in deciding. The medal was awarded to Mr. Beazley and Miss Shadoin was voted a special honor. Mr. Beazley's subject was "The Black Horse and His Rider." He lives at Julien, Ky., and won a similar medal last year. The judges were Messrs. Frank Rives, Hunter Wood and Thos. C. Underwood.

All of the participants acquitted themselves most handsomely and reflected great credit upon their competent and talented instructor.

Lieut. Bassett Is Back.

Lieut. E. B. Bassett returned last night from his trip to Frankfort, in the interest of the Latham Light Guards, who are endeavoring to have the wrong done them righted by being allowed to enter the new regiment now forming. The Governor gave him an interested audience of an hour or more, but was unable to make any definite promise on account of the order from Washington requiring most of the recruits under the new call to be used as fillers to companies already in service.

Lieut. Bassett is of the opinion, however, that the Governor is disposed to do the right thing in the matter, and that his sense of justice will cause him to give the company the opportunity to regain its rightful place in the Ky. volunteers.

Death of Mrs. R. H. Dudley.

Mrs. R. H. Dudley, of Pembroke, died last Tuesday of flux, in the 68th year of her age. Mrs. Dudley was a grand-daughter of Rev. Reuben Ross, a noted Baptist preacher who was one of the leading factors in the founding of old Bethel church and was its pastor for more than 25 years, and was moderator in Bethel Association for 50 years. The remains were buried at Pembroke Wednesday.
